New Farm Bloc Move In Battle On Trade Pacts

Seek Exemption Of Agricultural Commodities From Trade Treaty Concessions

LEADERS DRAFT AN AMENDMENT

Trade Treaty Pact Extension Battle Opens On Floor Of Senate Today

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 25.—A farm bloc move to exempt agricultural commodities from reciprocal trade treaty concessions today met the Roosevelt administration drive to extend the trade pact law another three years.

Encouraged by their success in breaking the congressional economy front in the farm bill fight, agricultural leaders drafted a measure to take their products entirely out of trade treaty jurisdiction. They planned to offer it as an amendment if the pending proposal to make each treaty subject to senate ratification fails to adoption.

"This amendment will be passed or the Democrats will lose the west in the 1940 presidential elections," warned one farm leader, Sen. Gurney (R) S. D.

Potent Factor

A Democrat, Sen. O'Mahoney, Wyo., added:

"The farm vote is a potent factor this year, and this amendment will command strong support."

This move came as the trade treaty battle opened on the senate floor with opposing sides evenly matched—and with congress on notice President Roosevelt would veto the extension resolution if an amendment compelling senate ratification was attached.

Countering the opposition, proponents of extension warned that the Democrats would suffer at the

In the flock of birds feeding Saturday morning were a brown thrush that did lots of "scrapping" and five black-birds. Owen Fox states that it is unusual to see a brown thrush this early, as this bird does not inhabit this vicinity until warmer weather. It is possible the unusually cold weather this winter in the south has caused some of the birds to come north ahead of their schedule. Blackbirds have become somewhat scarce in this city during recent years.

Most Of Nation Reports Extremely Cold Easter

(International News Service)

Many a new Easter costume had yet to receive its first public unveiling today because of yesterday's unseasonable cold which covered most of the nation's traditional Easter parade with a blanket of furs and heavy coats.

It was the coldest Easter day ever recorded in New York, the temperature rising from a low of 15 degrees early in the morning to 30 in the early afternoon for an average of 21 degrees. Up-state New York and New England were storm bound under heavy drifts of snow and ice.

New York's famous Fifth avenue fashion parade was greatly depleted in numbers and the hardy promenaders who braved the elements were well protected against the chill. Here and there a bright new Easter frock peeped out from behind furs. The parade, instead of being leisurely as usual, was more of a brisk canter to keep warm.

Snow fell all day in Winston Salem, N. C., in the south and only in the far west and southwest did the anticipated warm weather appear.

Churches were crowded as usual but the traditional sunrise services in many parts of the nation suffered in attendance.

The low temperatures in Washington forced President Roosevelt to remain indoors with his cold but Mrs. Roosevelt appeared for him at the dawn services in Arlington National cemetery.

Violent Disruptions To Communication Systems Were Prevalent Sunday

(International News Service)

The nation's communication systems got back into kilter today after a violent five-hour disruption Easter Sunday generally attributed to mysterious electrical disturbances caused by unusually large spots on the sun 92,390,000 miles away.

From about 10:30 Sunday morning until 3:30 in the afternoon and intermittenly through the evening, telephone, cable, telegraph, teletype and short-wave radio communications were disrupted between the United States and Europe.

American and European capitals and the major cities within the United States found themselves suddenly cut off from each other by these channels of communications. Service to South America and the Far East also was affected to a lesser degree.

Scientists attributed the sudden fading out of communications to a violent electrical bombardment caused by the sun-spots and fol-

Easter Church Crowds Large, Despite Weather

Another Easter has gone and until 1975, so we are told, it will not come again so early as it did this year. Cold though the weather was, with perhaps a little inconvenience to the ladies with spring clothes, the day was bright and the church attendance was huge.

From the standpiont of the merchants the weather wasn't so kind. While sales totals were good they probably would have been better had the temperature been higher. This went for clothing merchants, florists and shoe merchants. No weather ever stops the sale of chocolate eggs and jelly beans. The Easter bunny always lays a good crop of them.

The pre-Easter services held in the churches resulted in crowds in all of the Christian churches. Many of them were crowded almost beyond capacity and none of them but had satisfactory congregations.

With the Easter season over the post-Lenten social activities begin today. During the past week, like every other theatre in the country, the local theatres had smaller crowds. Holy Week is always responsible for lessened box office receipts.

Dances, parties and other social diversions are on the upswing again. The Easter season is over, the spring is here and the world profits from the lesson of the Resurrection.

State motor police today had in custody Robert G. Cole, 21, of East Long avenue, and Mayne M. Shotzbarger, 23, of Hamilton street, whom the state motor police claim stole an auto here then robbed a service station Saturday night in New Wilmington.

They were said to have approached the auto in which Benny Panella, Wampum R. D. 1, was seated in an alley south of West Washington street in the first ward, forced their way into the car, then compelled him to drive the car to Home street where they put him out of the auto

Britain Denies German Claims

London Disclaims Violations Of International Law In Sinking Nazi Boats

NEW SUBMARINE POLICY IS HINTED

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 25. — German claims of British violations of international law in connection with sinkings of German vessels were denied flatly by authoritative British quarters.

It was stated that Britain is complying with the letter of the law while the Germans, on the contrary, have been committing violations since September when the war began.

Informed British opinion held the British navy is now carrying out the promise of First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill, made after the famed Altmark incident occurred, to close as many gaps as possible around Norway.

(In the Altmark incident, British warships forced the German prison ship Altmark into a Norwegian fjord and released British seamen held captive aboard the Nazi vessel.)

Patrols Maintained

To carry out this plan of cutting the German sea route along the Norwegian coast, it was stated that Britain "obviously" is maintaining constant submarine, surface and aerial patrols. But it was claimed that this is being done "without deliberately violating" Norwegian neutrality.

While government officials refused openly to admit that Britain is developing a new submarine policy, growing belief that such a policy is coming into existence was supported by this statement, made by an authoritative spokesman:

"His majesty's government certainly is not going to be placed in the position of not being able to use the same weapon against Germany as Germany has been using indiscriminately against British and neutral shipping throughout the war."

The spokesman emphasized, however, that any British use of submarines would always be strictly within the letter of international sea law.

Norway Makes Protest To Britain

Neutrality Is Basis Of Move

Violations Of Norwegian Neutrality Are Charged In Protests

INCIDENTS TOOK PLACE LAST WEEK

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 25. — Erik Colban, Norway's minister to Great Britain, lodges a protest with the government today against two alleged violations of Norwegian neutrality by British warships.

Although some dispatches from Oslo to London claimed British vessels three times attempted to intercept German ships off the Norwegian coast within the past few days, the Norwegian government instructed the minister to protest against only two alleged violations. Both occurred last Thursday, according to the protest.

In the first a British torpedo boat allegedly threatened a German trawler off Husted Bay. In the second, it was charged, a British warship entered Norwegian waters and signalled a Norwegian warship, demanding the name of a German freighter which was being escorted by the Norwegians.

The Norwegian ship, according to this account, refused to give the name and ordered the British warship to "stand off."

(Editors' Note: An International News Service dispatch from Oslo mentioned two violations of Norwegian waters by British warships but added that Norway also protested to Berlin against German air and submarine attacks against two Norwegian vessels.

(Germany charges a British submarine sank a German vessel in Danish waters and accused Britain of "systematically violating" both Danish and Norwegian waters.)

The Norwegian protest was lodged as the British navy concentrated submarines in the region of the Skagerrak to cut off sea shipments of vital Swedish iron ore to the Reich.

p. m. A police radio broadcast was made and the cruiser cars were searching throughout the city for the pair. The state motor police also took up the vigil.

It was not long following the New Wilmington burglary until one of the motor police saw the car descending North Jefferson street hill, then turn west on Grant street. The motor police pursued and overhauled the car on West Grant street.

The motor police car forced the stolen car to the side of the street and it stopped. Sensing that a police car was in pursuit, it was charged by motor police that Cole tossed the revolver used in the hold-up from the car west of the Grant street bridge. It has not been found.

Robbery On March 9

The youths were taken to the motor police substation and quizzed. They confessed, police said, to having robbed the Hite service station March 9. Francis M. Gardner, attendant there, was the victim that night. Police say $51.53 was taken there.

Those under arrest were arraigned before Alderman Claude Mantz on charges of armed robbery and larceny of an auto. No date for a hearing has yet been fixed by the alderman.

Today, state motor police reported they had reason to believe that someone picked up the revolver after it was tossed from the car near where the pair were arrested.

"We want the person who picked up the revolver to bring it to state motor police headquarters," a motor policeman stated.

FAITH
There are two words in the English language today that are quite often misused.
There are two ways to use the word BROTHER, when greeting your fellowmen. One is just a means of saluting him. The other is when you actually mean that you are a real brother of his in many ways. We should stop and think when we use this word, and see if we mean it.
The other word is SERVICE. It is worn to a frazzle today, as it is advertised and talked about, but that is all. In our funeral work we practice service as well as preach it. In other words, we give all of our knowledge and our energy in trying to serve our patrons.

PIONEER WEEK

TODAY opens Pioneer Week in New Castle, a week devoted to public recognition of the modern pioneers who head the industries of the city and to the rekindling of the fires of courage and hope in the minds and hearts of the citizens.

Pioneer Week is not a commercial scheme, not a racket to extract money, it is a sincere effort upon the part of a large group of men and women gathered together as a general committee to combat a spirit of defeatism, to bring New Castle people to a fuller realization of what it has and the possibilities of the future.

Here in this city or within the immediate environs are a wide diversification of industrial plants, some 107 in number, turning out 99 different sorts of things, employing men and women and contributing to the general welfare of the community.

Pioneer Week does not seek to install false hope, nor to paint a roseate picture that has nothing to substantiate it. It does propose to direct the thinking of the citizenry along more hopeful lines and to show them a true picture of what we really have here.

The week had its official inception in City Hall. The mayor of the city and the four members of council first suggested the idea publicly and then turned the work of planning and directing the week's activities to an executive committee. This committee followed the councilmanic action by appointing a general committee and setting the dates as March 25 to 31.

The heartiest co-operation has been seen in the working out of the plans. Industrialists, labor unionists, merchants, ministers, educators, professional men and women and the great body of citizens have given it their encouragement and where asked their tangible suppport.

Now Pioneer Week is here. Each day will be dedicated to some phase of our civic activity with the climax of the week coming on Saturday, March 30, when a banquet will be held in the Cathedral. The principal speaker at the banquet will be His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, the Honorable Arthur H. James.

At the banquet will be a cross section of New Castle from those in authority to those of lowlier stature. All of them will be there with a oneness of purpose, to help New Castle.

Pioneer Week will be what the people of New Castle choose to make of it. Considered in the light of what it is intended to be, an emotional urge towards a better day, it should be a success. But its success will depend not so much upon the success of the various activities of the days, nor the number attending the banquet Saturday night but upon the reaction of the people. If it wipes out defeatism, if it convinces our people that New Castle is still a mighty fine city, if it results in a better spirit of civic co-operation which in itself, will certainly bring material results later, then the week is bound to be an unqualified success.

And we are optimistic enough to believe that it will be just such a success.

TWO-FOLD OBLIGATION

"Pay as much attention to the man from whom we take a dollar as to the man to whom we give it," urged Senator Vandenburg in a recent address.

And there, certainly, is a plain expression of prudent policy that has been conspicuous by its absence for the past several years. Government spending has been focused exclusively upon the beneficiaries. Little if any notice has been accorded the people who foot the bills.

Fortunately, the taxpayers, as evidenced in New York state, are beginning to make themselves heard despite the easy assumptions of boondogging politicians and reckless financiers.

If and when indignant protests force the kind of two-fold obligation to which Senator Vandenberg alludes, the nation at long last will start heading toward balanced budgets, reduced debts, lowered tax rates and the other difficult but necessary goals of sound economy.

INVENTIONS AND ENVIRONMENT

Vermont residents, it was recently determined, are the most inventive persons in the nation. Throughout the country, one out of every 2,898 persons took out a patent last year. But in Mississippi, least inventive of the states on a per capita basis, only one out of every 49,020 persons filed a patent.

The figures may prove nothing at all, or they may reflect the influence of adverse natural conditions on the inventive spirit. Mississippi is warm, semi-tropical; Vermonters must get used to wintry blasts, must figure out ways of overcoming the effects of much unfavorable weather.

So have the Finns and the people of Scandinavia turned inventive and have fought successfully against natural hardships. Adversity will always produce genius. Man has a way of being goaded into solving his problems if he must.

The new Bulgarian cabinet is headed by a college professor. The cables do not state whether he is a New Deal professor.

There are now 45,000,000 radio sets in the United States. Sometimes it seems as if there is one alleged comedian for every set.

Matrimonial expert says young women today are too lazy to take the initiative during leap year. Or maybe they're too cautious.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

WHEN THE BOY FRIEND CALLS

We parents are sometimes jittery because we fear our child will say or do something before our adult friends which will embarrass us. And this is one reason why so many children can't be comfortable when there is "company".

Yet, few of us ever realize how much anxiety our children have about the way we might act in the presence of their playmates and young friends. We little know how much our children are embarrassed by our failure to measure up socially to what they expect of us.

Here I must confess that each of our children, even before the age of 12, had the experience of asking me to keep from certain acts or remarks toward their playmates which I was about to engage in, or of requesting me to avoid repeating such. At this earlier age, or later, they gave me some good advice on proper manners toward their pals. Their mother seldom needed it.

Happily, however, I recall several occasions when one of the children told me I had greatly improved. A little praise like that from a child goes a long way to help one go on improving. I must say to their credit that they chose opportune moments for "correction" and, to my credit that I was able not to show annoyance, but actually able to express repentance when I was so censured or exhorted.

When It's "Boy Friend"

It's when the "boy friend" comes to the home that a parent's failure to measure up to high standards of decorum is most serious. Whether we approve or disapprove of the young man he and our daughter deserve that we be courteous. It's curious how very rude some parents, especially fathers, will be toward the boy friend of their daughter when they dislike him. Even if we wish to "break up the match", we generally will defeat our purpose by such procedure. Anyway, you and I can't afford to be boorish toward anybody.

We should remember that it's our daughter the young man is interested in, not her parents. Some mothers and fathers, over-eager to encourage the young man, become a bore to him, wearing him out with their chatter and inordinate attention.

There's a real art in being a good host or hostess to your daughter's masculine friends. Wise parents will do well to cultivate this art; and if they are good comrades with their daughter, she will gladly aid them in this direction.

Tips For Daughter

A few tips to the daughter: Be sure to have your friend come into the house. Present him to your parents. If you think your parents lack proper manners toward him, choose a quiet moment when you feel best toward them, then tenderly entreat them to do so and so henceforth.

Also some tips to the young man: Learn good manners. Exercise them toward the parents and their daughter. Good manners will go a long way to win all of them. Find out the hour when the daughter's parents expect her to be home, then live up to the standard.

I have prepared a selected list of books on manners for parents and children, to be had by writing me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. My nine-year-old girl talks back to me.

A. Quit talking back to her. It may be well to state your reasons briefly before stating your decision or command, but once it is announced or made, say no more. If it is a command to be obeyed and is not obeyed within a reasonable time, calmly announce the penalty and make good your word.

FAILURE

Now the miser, stark and cold,
Lies above his hoarded gold.
Stack the coins and run them through,
Proofs of all he failed to do.
Poor old fellow! Cast an eye
On the warmth he wouldn't buy!

Poor old fellow, strangely mad!
Count the joys he could have had.
Through the lawyer's fingers run
All the things he could have done,
All the helpful deeds worth while
Stacked in one great yellow pile!

Here's the life he chose to live!
Here's the help he wouldn't give.
Here, the many times he said
"No!" to hunger asking bread.
Here kept safe for us to view
Stays the good he failed to do.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:16; Sunrises tomorrow 5:55.

About the only think the people of the United States are sure of is the national debt. It also has another year to go.

People who watch politics have plenty to watch these days. Nothing ever known like it.

With the right kind of living the only time a man goes to jail on visitors' day.

We had occasion to go over the street leading to the cemeteries on the North Hill the other day and wondered why people stood for such conditions. Hundreds of people go over that street every day and many of them from out of town and it would be interesting to know what they think after they ride over the bumps. The dead also get a good shaking up for the last time.

The planets must affect humans. What else could make the people of all lands act crazy every so often.

Americanism: Being shocked when foreign lands use force to divide the wealth: farmers using the power of their vote to get a billion and a quarter hand-out.

If you wish to know which nation is strongest wait and see which one tells you what international law is.

Brief summary of each ruler's remarks to Welles: "We're tougher than they are."

The Ohio law forbidding barbers to advertise has been declared unconstitutional. Who ever heard of a barber advertising except when he was working on a victim?

Neighbors you are trying to keep up with probably are having a tough time setting the pace.

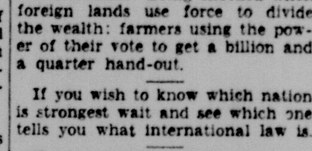

Too many people who have no religion at all take pleasure in criticising the people who are trying to live up to some religion.

The difficulty in exposing un-American activities is that so many things aren't today that were yesterday.

Collier's prints a letter about a member of the supreme court who drank cocktails, slapped a lady and called her baby. Freedom of the dirt.

The Chief Executive is like a pitcher. He gets the praise or blame but the result depends on the hits made by other people.

Dr. Gallup says people interviewed by his workers are still confused by the word "economy." The word "dodo" would get them, to.

A typical home is one that has 1200 watts in pretty lamps here and there and no place where you can see to read.

A president's lot isn't happy. Think of being on a spot where your reputation depends on whether other people make money.

Another peculiarity of relief! A domestic servant may be able to support herself, but she must quit and loaf or her husband will lose his W. P. A. job.

Folks pay so little attention to signs that the word "Stop" in a telegram hardly causes them to hesitate.

A young couple appeared at a church on Sunday morning and asked to be married. The minister told them to be seated in the rear of the congregation and he would call them up at the close of the service. Upon concluding his sermon he said: "Are there persons in the audience desiring to be married?" One man and eleven women came forward.

No doubt there are some people who think after the court house has been dolled up there should be some conveniences and comforts put into the county jail.

Some men don't know about hard times until the wife loses her job.

Now we are told there will be a short maple syrup crop. The boys who have been making it for years without any maple will have a bigger market.

The judge of Cambria county favors the whipping post for wife beaters. Wonder what he favors for husband beaters?

Control of the sea: The power to crack down on any friendly neutral who tries to use it.

Something wrong. Another brewery has gone into bankruptcy in Martins Ferry, O. Beer going flat.

Good Taste

I have one friend with many lovable qualities who nevertheless will invariably keep everyone near her in jitters due to such nervous habits as fingering or tapping articles while she is talking. Continually she twists her rings about on her fingers, her bracelets on her wrists. When she is not performing thus she is making tight fists of her hands or clasping and unclasping them. Such habits usually begin in early life and unless relaxation can be learned at that time it will be difficult to acquire it during maturity. If it does get a hold as it has my frieid, it will be difficult to earn a welcome in many homes.

Reader's Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I am to have an out-of-town friend act as maid-of-honor at my wedding. She will stay at a nearby hotel. Must I assume her expenses while there?—Catherine.

Answer: This responsibility is usually assumed by the family of the bride. It is hardly fair to ask the young woman to pay these expenses when her trip is made to suit your convenience.

Out-of-town bridesmaids, too, should be entertained by your family, if possible.

If you have no room for them in your home, it will be in good taste for some of your relatives or intimate friends, living in your city to take them in for the night before the wedding. If you can make no such arrangements, your attendants will then have to stay at a hotel.

Although your family should pay the hotel expenses of your wedding attendants the guests, if they stay at a hotel, should pay their own.

If the bridegroom's parents live in the town in which the wedding takes place, they should arrange for the entertainment of the best man or ushers who come from distant points.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

Tomorrow—Advice to Secretaries.

There is talk of holding a big prize fight in Philadelphia during the national Republican convention. Seems to us one big fight will be enough at one time in the City of Brotherly Love.

Hitler and Mussolini are different than some of the politicians in this country when it comes to giving out stuff. When they meet they part and say nothing. In this country everything seems to be broadcast soon as it happens.

A "No Admittance" sign to most persons means nothing, and when one sees a placard that says "Welcome" he wonders how much it is going to cost him.

After every big mine disaster when many poor chaps are killed we hear an investigation of mining conditions is to take place at once, but nothing ever happens. Seems to us seeing the families of the killed miners standing around the mine grieving for their dead would wake up those who are in authority.

Americanism: Urging one another to be generous and tolerant in dealing with minorities; nobody teaching the minorities to feel that way toward the majority.

A man is praised for being good to his old mother, but did you ever know one who wasn't?

After learning about Santa Claus, his next great shock is the discovery that his bride knows dirty stories.

England seems to be doing all the losing. You see, you can't make an exciting headline out of empty stomachs.

But why bother to prepare other intelligence tests when we have so much propaganda?

Economic pressure isn't unfair. Do you continue to patronize a merchant who slaps your kids around?

Honesty is the safest policy, too. If you scorn any illegal or undesired profit, swindlers can't get you excited.

Probably you know the fellow who asks a minute of your time and then takes up all the afternoon.

What's What At A Glance

Suspicion Grows Against England
Feel British Are Imposing On Us
Say Diplomacy Has Been Bungled

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, March 25.—In connection with war conditions, English newspapers have been saying some rather disagreeable things about Uncle Samuel lately and American newspapers have been reciprocating as to John Bull and his ways. Officially there is nothing amiss except that Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy has been quoted as reporting to President Roosevelt that the London government has badly bungled its diplomacy since even before actual hostilities developed. Neither governmental Washington nor London has taken any notice of the mutually increasing unpleasantness of press comment, however, nor has the British foreign office paid any attention to Ambassador Kennedy's reported utterances to the White House—though English editorial writers have been decidedly vocal on the latter subject.

All this isn't to say that American sentiment is believed to be switching pro-Hitlerward or pro-Stalinward or that it's switching at all emphatically in the direction of anti-Britishness or anti-Frenchiness.

Nevertheless, Washington senses a developing Yankee feeling that the British (not so much the French) incline to impose considerably upon American good nature in managing the anti-German blockade. Maybe the French would do it, too, if they had Britain's sea-strength to "get away with it", but they haven't; so J. Bull is the individual principally criticized.

For instance, Uncle Sam doesn't like British interference with his overseas mails. He doesn't like undue delay of his merchant vessels for contraband overhauling at British-controlled ports, or the forcible British steering of such vessels into dangerous waters. He doesn't like having his exports and imports, in neutral craft, Britishly supervised. He doesn't like having British cruisers desregarding our Pan-American neutrality zone.

There's no question about these objections, because our state department has specifically expressed them in formal communications to London.

But John Bull's navy pays no attention to these mild representations, and the state department hesitates to put them in the form of vigorous protests or warnings, not desiring to risk an out-and-out strain on British-American relations.

Press Resentment

American popular sentiment, though, appears to be getting pretty resentful—not belligerent, but quite "huffy." And the American press reflects it.

The English press, in turn, resents the American press' resentment.

Its attitude is, "Well, you Americans sympathize with us, don't you, against Nazi-ism?"

The answer is, "Yes, with the qualification that we're neutral."

This makes the English editorial writers sorer than ever. "We take it then," they say, "that you fellows want us to fight for world democracy, including yours, but you propose to stand on every little technicality against us."

They also rake up the old story that the United States, after the last war, expected the Allies to pay what they owed to us. They didn't do it, but they still realize that we originally thought they would.

Consequently, Uncle Samuel again is referred to as "Uncle Shylock."

Isn't this enough to make any American hot under the collar? The state department restrains itself but some of our newspapers show a good bit of temper. At that, they haven't said anything nearly as disagreeable as some of the English papers have said about us.

In Parenthesis

Parenthetically:

Nobody doubts that the Germans would have been as unceremonious with us as the British have been—only they haven't enough of a navy.

All they've been able to do is a little pocketbattleship poaching in our neutrality zone—but on too small a scale to amount to much. And they've scuttled a few of their blockade-runners within our waters. If they choose to scuttle some of their own craft, what do we care!

As to Ambassador Kennedy, it may have been undiplomatic of him to say that Prime Minister Chamberlain has bungled Britain's foreign relationships worse than Fuehrer Hitler has done since pre-war days up to date, but it's hard to deny that he's done so.

The Great Game Of Politics

Presidential Veracity

WASHINGTON, March 25.

ONE IS not supposed publicly to question the veracity of the President of the United States. The dignity of the office protects the man who occupies it and enables him sometimes to make assertions that in others would meet with flat contradiction. But that privilege ought to impose upon a President an obligation to see that his own assertions are not susceptible to contradiction. Particularly it should make him careful not to accuse others of inaccuracy unless his accusations are completely justified.

IT does not seem to work that way with this President. For example, take his most recent denial of a newspaper story. It seems worth while to review facts. This story was printed on March 4 by the strong New Dealer and great Presidential admirer, Mr. Ernest Lindley. In effect, it said that Mr. Roosevelt had told an intimate friend, first, that he himself would not run for a third term; second, that he thought highly of Mr. Hull as a candidate if Mr. Jackson were his running mate; third, that Mr. Farley's nomination for Vice-President was not feasible because he is a Catholic. All of this, except the remark about Mr. Farley, had been printed before and there is no doubt whatever that Mr. Roosevelt had said it all before.

QUERIED about the Lindley article next day at his press conference, the President evaded by saying he had not read it. As it had been printed conspicuously on the first page of the Washington Post, and as almost immediately he quoted a statement he said he had read on an inside page of the same paper, no one believed that. Used to such Presidential evasions, the newspapermen did not regard the President as being deliberately mendacious; they simply considered it his own way of avoiding an embarrassing question. The following day both press and radio commented copiously on the fact that the story had been allowed to stand without even the indirect denial through the Presidential secretary so often and conveniently used.

IN the days that followed every important newspaper in the country referred to the resentment of Mr. Farley and his friends over the White House suggestion that a Catholic would not be considered for the second place. Many columns were written pointing out that this issue had been raised against Mr. Farley

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

AMERICA'S ACCOMPLISHMENTS

Those men constituting the advisors of the Roosevelt Administration are working overtime to break down the Capitalistic System and substitute something like the Socialism of Karl Marx in this Nation.

Why should free-born American citizens now stand idly by and by their silence give consent to such destructive purposes.

In all fairness, and with all reason, I think I can show you that if America is ready for the social junkheap, it certainly is not evident in the position we hold in the world after only one hundred fifty years of our national existence.

In support of this assertion, may I call you attention that while we have only seven per cent of the world's population, and six per cent of the land area, we have more purchasing power than all of Europe, and we own and create half of the world's wealth.

We spend $3,000,000,000 a year for education which is more than all the rest of the world put together. (Too much for what our children get.)

There are more refrigerators in the City of Chicago than all foreign cities combined.

We have 45,000,000 radio receiving sets which is more than in all the rest of the world.

We own half the communication facilties of the world, half the railways, and half the plants devloping electric energy.

We operate four out of five of all automobiles over 8 h. p.

We have half the telephones, 98 per cent of the world's washing machines, and consume 78 per cent of the world's supply of soap.

We consume half the world's coffee, one-fourth the sugar, one-half the tin, one-half the rubber, three-fourths the silk, one-third the coal and two-thirds the petroleum.

And we carry 65 million life insurance policies.

I leave it with you, do these figures, itemizing the achievements of a young nation, impress you as calling for the need of a receiver, a guardian, a benevolent dictator, or a political grandpappy to tell his children how to take care of themselves? Especially, an illustrious humanitarian who has never been known to have earned a dollar in his life.

nowhere else; that it would rise to plague the President in the convention and in the campaign; that Mr. Farley could not now be turned down without having it ascribed to his religion. All of which were obvious, legitimate and inevitable deductions. There was nationwide discussion of these points, and expressions of feeling from Catholics began to get into the papers.

THE existence of what was almost an open rift between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley was generally noted and on Monday Mr. Farley, in New York, made a speech in which he pointedly expressed the hope that in this country neither race, religion nor color should bar any man from aspiring to any office. Unmistakably, this was in reply to the Lindley article quoting the President on this subject. It got results. The next day at his press conference the President brought up his fifteen-day-old story himself. He applauded what Mr. Farley had said as "grand", and he asserted that, having now read the Lindley article, he wanted to say that it was "false in every particular" and had been made up "out of the whole cloth".

NOW, it would be easy to characterize this if it came from anyone save the President of the United States. Under the circumstances, all that can be said is that not even his most partial New Deal friends believe it. What they do believe is that, after fifteen days, it became clear that there was too much Catholic resentment to let the story stand and Mr. Roosevelt felt it had to be denied. The fact that the denial reflected professionally upon one of his most devoted friends did not deter him at all.

THE attending newspapermen were not greatly surprised at this, because the same thing has happened many times before. For instance, less than six weeks ago, after certain figures concerning public and private debt given out by the President at Hyde Park had promptly been shot to pieces by his critics, Mr. Roosevelt asserted that the newspapers had misrepresented and misconstrued what he said. The five newspapermen who had taken the figures from Mr. Roosevelt's own transcript knew this was not true., but they were in no position to say so.

DENIALS of this kind are understood by the correspondents. They are used to them. They do not regard them so much as deliberate mendacity as they do just the President's method of escaping from the unfavorable reaction to his own words. If everybody understood that as well as the newspapermen, it would be a not very admirable but still a trivial business. What makes it tough to take is that, in order to nullify the effect of his own indiscretions and mistakes, Mr. Roosevelt does not hesitate to utilize the institution he disparages as the channel to convey the idea that its representatives are inaccurate and itself untruthful.

TO foster that impression with the public has been so deliberate an Administration policy and the efforts to promote it so transparently political that it is difficult to understand why every self-respecting newspaperman in the country does not resent it. Certainly they would be justified in doing so. Certainly, too, there could be no greater tribute to the press than the consistent scrupulousness with which the reporters write and the newspapers print the frequent utterances of Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Ickes and other of his aides, which reflect upon and disparage both. That thought may not occur to the average reader, but it should. It might help in forming a judgment as to who in these constantly recurring "denials" is the more veracious—the President or the Press.

"Aurora Borealis" Causes Teletype To Go On "Wild Spree"

Odd incidents occur at city hall. For instance, recently they got a report that someone had stolen a baby carriage. More recently they received a report that someone had stolen a wheel-barrow. Sunday the police teletype played peculiar tricks. In fact, it acted as though it was intoxicated.

Naturally the police sergeants who must read every word of the messages were somewhat vexed. After making their own investigation the police came to the decision that only an A. T. & T. company employe could soothe the apparently intoxicated teletype.

It did not take the A. T. & T. "doctor" long to explain.

"Your trouble is being caused by an Aurora Borealis," he diagnosed.

"Aurora Borealis?" Ahem, I understand," the police replied.

After Aurora Borealis got over his Northern Lights spree the police teletype sobered and what had been incoherent messages became coherent telegrams and the police were appeased.

Three Deer Appear At Airport Sunday

Frightened By Approaching Plane And Flee From District In Giant Strides

Three deer, a doe and two bucks probably thought the end to their days was near, as they were frightened by an airplane, near the New Castle airport, Sunday.

As Bill Ice, local pilot, and Jim Haus, airport attendant, took-off Sunday afternoon, they spotted the animals near the lower end of the port, and Ice headed in their direction.

The airplane was kept at an altitude from which the occupants of the ship could easily keep an eye on the earth below. The deer, hearing the roaring motor, hurriedly stopped their grazing and started across the country.

The long graceful strides, made by the animals as they ran along, jumping fences and other obstructions was a beautiful sight to see, from the air, according to Ice.

Pilot Ice reports having seen deer in the vicinity on two different occasions, last week.

Report President Plans Early Trip To Georgia

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 25—President Roosevelt today was reported planning an early visit to Warm Springs, Ga., while his New Deal followers try to line up Texas and Wisconsin Democrats for a third term.

The third term movement reaches a climax in Texas this week as Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, the New Deal's "hatchet-man," is now enroute to the home state of Vice President John Nance Garner. New Dealers say that the real purpose of Icke's visit is to line up third term delegates against Garner, though he is scheduled to speak at an oil celebration in Kilgore Wednesday.

The Wisconsin movement meets its major test April 2, a week from tomorrow, when the Democrats of that state go to the polls to choose between Roosevelt third term and Garner delegates. On the Republican side, the choice will be between Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and racket-buster Thomas E. Dewey.

Garnerites feel certain they can overcome the third term movement in Texas and elect a straight Garner delegation at the party convention May 28. But they are frankly annoyed by the New Deal's invasion of Texas, since it marks the first time the third termers have attempted to defeat a favorite-son in his own state.

In Wisconsin, the Garnerites are optimistic. They predict Garner will win a majority of the state's 24 delegates from the president. Their hopes of victory are based largely on the fact that two slates of delegates are entered for the president against one for Garner, a situation that tends to divide the third term vote.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Plan To Construct New Baseball Field

Once Popular Field To Be Turned Into Recreation Center Again

Plans were announced today to construct a new baseball field in the Seventh Ward for this coming season. The new field will be located on the old P. & L. E. property along Lafayette street.

Sometime ago, this field was quite popular with the athletic-minded residents of the district, but for a number of years it has been abandoned.

If all of the plans work out, this field will again be turned into a recreation center. Providing the field is constructed, the field now being used, near the Pennsylvania railroad shops will be abandoned. The danger of reaching the present playing field is great, the players and spectators finding it necessary to cross numerous tracks to reach it.

Francis Kozik wrote the prize winning novel in the all-national prize contest sponsored by Farrar & Rinehart company. It is called The Great Debureau, and is a story of a clown.

It is a moving and tender novel, based on the life of this actor—a novel as exciting as it is gentle and peaceful; a novel as carelessly happy as it is deeply tragic, for it tells the story of a man whose faith in and understanding of the people never faltered, and whose destiny was that of blind service to them and their happiness.

Mr. Kozik, who is a Czecho-Slovakian, cannot be found by his publishers to be given his award of $1,000 and his royalties.

The book is a recent addition to the local public library collection.

Income Tax Payments Show Gain In State

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 25. Collections of federal income tax this year are increasing at a much greater rate in Pennsylvania than the country as a whole.

Such collections in the Keystone State during the first 20 days of March totaled $50,707,438, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Guy Helvering reports. This represented a gain of $15,024,991, or 43 per cent over the same period last year when receipts aggregated $35,682,447. In the country as a whole, on the other hand, collections gained only 31 per cent.

The percentage gain was greater in Pennsylvania than all but a half dozen states. Ohio had an increase of 62 per cent and Virginia 45 per cent, but New York collections moved upward only 24 per cent. Pennsylvania continued to rank third in collections, New York topping the list and Illinois coming second.

Household Aides Shortage Acute

Job Mobilization To Include Training For Domestic Work In Home

RED CROSS WILL BE ASKED TO AID

HARRISBURG, March 25.—Immediate expansion of training opportunities to prepare qualified girls for jobs as 'household aides", and thereby meet a state-wide employment demand, was urged today by William A. Hemphill, Executive Director of the Job Mobilization Committee.

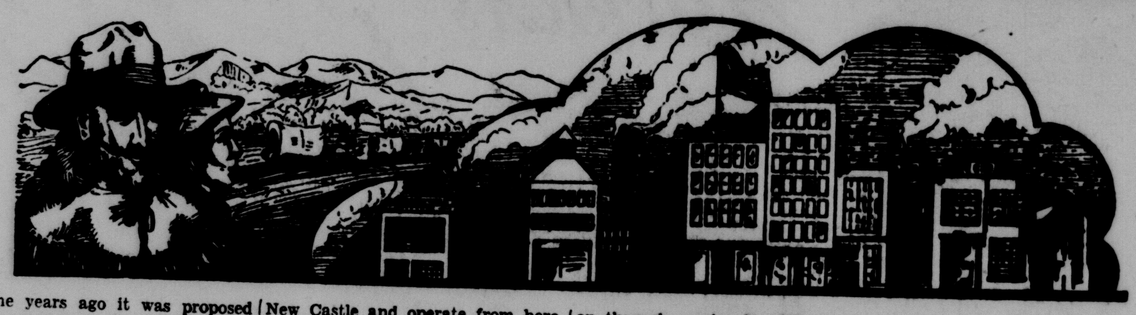

Thousands of girls could be placed in homes if they are able to take over management of the household and perform routine child care and sickroom duties under the supervision of a physician or visiting nurse, Hemphill maintains.

From practically every county reports have come from Job Mobilization workers of an acute shortage of such household aides, especially for low income families where it is impossible to employ trained nurses. Last December the State Employment Service placed 2789 women and girls in domestic service jobs, and it is estimated that at least sixty per cent of all such placements should be individuals with a working knowledge of home hygiene and care of the sick.

A suggested course of study for training household aides in eighteen weeks will be incorporated in a proposed Job Mobilization report of vocational training and rehabilitation, covering occupational fields in which the possession of suitable skills will enable unemployed youth and adults to get jobs.

The plan calls for the addition of the American Red Cross course in home hygiene and care of the sick to the unusual household service training course now being offered in a limited number of public schools and WPA and NYA centers, with the cooperation of the State Employment Service and the Department of Public Assistance. Full cooperation of the American Red Cross and the Pennsylvania State Nurses' Association has been assured. More than 200 registered nurses who are qualified as Red Cross instructors will be available for assignment wherever the course is desired.

PIONEER SPIRIT MARCHING ON IN NEW CASTLE

Some years ago it was proposed to establish four trunk systems of railroads in the eastern United States. The four would have been the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore and Ohio, the New York Central and the Chesapeake and Ohio. Had this been done New Castle would have had the distinction of being one of the relatively few cities into which all four of the trunks operated.

Here are found the first three roads mentioned, and the Chesapeake and Ohio would have been in on the Erie trackage as that road would have been part of the C&O. The plan never went through and is only mentioned to show the importance of New Castle as a railroad center. In addition the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh came into New Castle but a few years ago was absorbed by the Baltimore and Ohio.

The history of the Pennsylvania in New Castle dates back to the Civil War with the incorporation of the New Castle and Beaver Valley Railroad Company on February 6, 1862. On October 3, 1863 the road from New Castle to Homewood was opened amid speech-making and celebration. From that tiny beginning the vast network of Pennsylvania lines in this district spread and for many years they have been known as the Erie and Ashtabula division. The road from Girard Junction to New Castle now known to Pennsy men as the E&P, later the Lawrence Railroad from Lawrence Junction to Youngstown, and later the New Castle and Franklin, (the WNY&P). The Erie and Ashtabula division radiates out from New Castle to Erie, to Stoneboro, to Ashtabula and to Kenwood. The division offices were once at Lawrence Junction but since 1900 have been at the west side station.

Yard crews and road crews live in New Castle and operate from here. Backing the train and engine crews is a fine group of maintenance men, signal men, repair men and clerks. On the southern fringe of New Castle are located the car repair shops. Here are facilities for rebuilding 15 freight cars per day. Light running repairs are made to loaded cars at the shops, and the engine house services engines used in the New Castle and Sharon districts.

Pennsylvania men boast of their railroad and its service. New Castle joins in those boasts for the "Pennsy" has been a definite part of the economic life of New Castle for many years. M. W. Clements is the president of the Pennsylvania but E&A men "knew him when."

The Erie & Ashtabula division is headed by J. E. Vandling as superintendent and although comparatively a newcomer to New Castle he has already gotten into the spirit of the E. & A. He follows in the train of some outstanding railroaders for the E. & A. has always been known as a division where real railroaders were developed.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad proudly claims a link with the Declaration of Independence. James Carroll who laid the first stone in the beginning of the B&O in 1827 was a signer of the Declaration. Pennsylvania confirmed the charter of the B&O in 1828.

The early days of the B&O were for the most part in the east but soon trackage was either built or acquired on the west side of the Alleghenies. Perhaps you remember the old Pittsburgh and Western which is now the B&O in this district.

Pioneers in every sense of the word the B&O has pioneered in many ways. It was the first railroad to use an electric motor on rails in 1851 and first to use sleeping cars on through service in 1859. It pioneered the way in air conditioned cars and today is using Diesel engines in hauling its crack passenger trains.

However, with all the glorious history of the B&O as a national unit, we are more concerned with it as a part of New Castle's economic life and it is an important one.

Its shops at New Castle Junction are models of railroad efficiency. Here the huge "hogs" that speed the freight over the rails are repaired, here the sleek passenger engines are overhauled for service between Chicago and Washington.

New Castle Junction is an important part of the B&O. Passenger trains leaving Chicago change engines at New Castle junction eastbound and from Washington to Chicago westbound. Between midnight and one o'clock you may have heard a hoarse deep throated whistle sounding south of New Castle. That is the Capitol Limited, pride of the B&O heading either east or west for the two pass each other not far from the city limits.

Heading the Baltimore and Ohio is the grand old man of the rails, Daniel Willard. He is the head of a transportation empire and the hundreds of his empire who call New Castle home proudly acclaims his leadership.

Back of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie is an interesting story of how funds were raised. Money was needed and Jacob Henrici, trustee of the Harmony Society had boxes of silver dollars brought in to the Monongehela House in Pittsburgh where the organization was being completed.

Known as the Little Giant the P&LE was begun in 1877 and the line from Pittsburgh to New Castle and Youngstown was finished in 1879. Today it is a part of the New York Central and connects New Castle with the markets of the world.

The shops are located at New Castle Junction where the equipment is serviced.

While its trackage is not as extensive in the New Castle district as the other three roads, the Erie railroad performs a valuable service in that it links New Castle with the outside world in places the other roads do not reach.

The road was chartered April 24, 1832, under President Andrew Jackson. For a time construction was held up. June 30, 1841, was the day the first train load of passengers was hauled with the locomotive "Eleazar Lord" hauling the train from Piermont to Ramapo, N. Y.

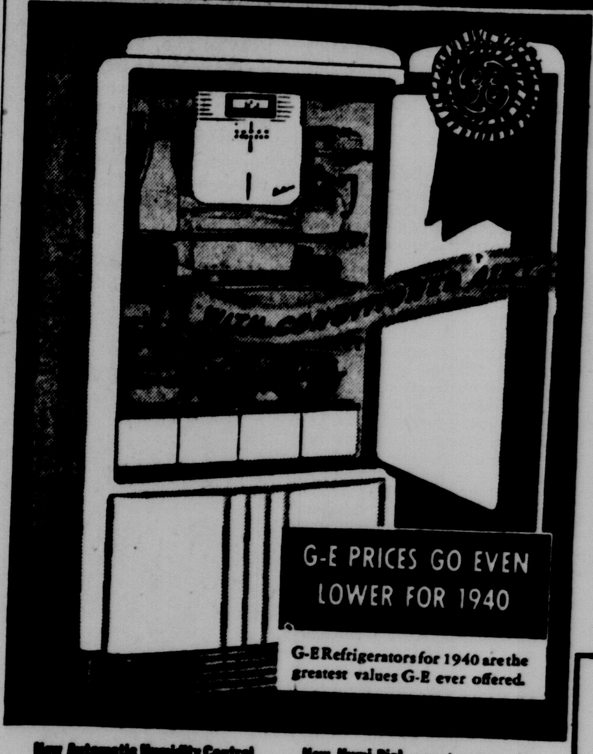

Locally the New Castle branch of the Erie railroad was chartered May 3, 1887, and opened in 1889. The road was along the canal route and was owned by the New York, Pennsylvania & Northern Ohio railroad, as Western Railroad, Sharpsville branch. The lease was later made to the Erie.

The year 1939 saw a large increase in revenues and wages paid on the railroads here, the payroll increase amounting to $194,000. Express shipments were up by 13,488 shipments and the mail business showed an increase of 5,263 pouches carried.

Railroad men are good citizens for the responsibilities of their work carry over into their lives as citizens. New Castle is proud of her railroad men and their willingness to share in the duties of citizenship is just one of the many reasons why it is a pleasure to honor their leaders during this, Pioneer Week.

Wednesday is Transportation Day and you should take advantage of the opportunity to see the railroad exhibit of modern equipment which will be at the old East Side station on East Washington street.

News And Views From Pennsylvania Capital

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 25—Behind the recent flurry in administration and Republican circles over the report that the joint government commission was considering a state income tax to raise additional funds for relief appears to be a difference of opinion over a fundamental issue. Numerous Republican legislators believe that it will be necessary to resort to new taxes to balance the relief budget, but opposed to this is the insistence of Governor James against new taxation. One thing is certain, behind the scenes considerable study of Pennsylvania's tax structure is now in progress.

In the event the administration through some unexpected financial windfall is able to hurdle the forthcoming special session of the legislature without having to impose new taxes, ondy a miracle can prevent the tax problem from becoming problem number one of the 1941 regular session.

"Any intelligent person is in favor of the New Deal objectives," said a prominent Pennsylvania politician recently. The speaker was former Republican U. S. Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh. "My complaint with the New Deal," added Reed, "is the abominable mal-administration of those objectives."

"Generally, I'm rather favorably impressed with it", continued Reed. "Where the New Dealers have been smart is in pretending that all their opponents are opposed to those objectives." Reed said he was committed to any Republican candidate for president.

All three Democratic candidates for United States senator have now officially opened their primary campaigns. Senator Joseph F. Guffey was the first, with an address at Columbia. Walter A. Jones, chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission, led off his campaign with an address at the opening of his Philadelphia headquarters, while William N. McNair, former Pittsburgh mayor, began his campaign with an address at Butler attended by 43 people, one of whom heckled him on his anti-third term stand.

State Treasurer F. Clair Ross is doing his best not to become involved in the Guffey-Jones senatorial fight. "I'm running for auditor general," he has told his friends and political aids, "and intend to keep out of the senatorial battle". It was reported in treasury circles that employes were advised to withdraw from county political races in which a factional fight threatened.

Circular letters have been sent out in various state departments warning employes not to discuss politics or finances with outsiders. One of the departments is highways, it was understood.

Protests Being Made By Norway

Recent Attacks Upon Norwegian Ships Cause Protests To Germany

(International News Service)

OSLO, March 25.—Recent violations of Norwegian territorial waters by British warships were reported in Oslo today after the government protested to Berlin against German air and submarine attacks upon two Norwegian ships.

It was claimed that on Thursday night a British warship approached the coast south of Christiansund in Norwegian waters but disappeared when Norwegian patrol ships and a plane reached the scene. A smiliar incident was reported to have occurred later south of Christiansund.

Authorities pointed to a British campaign to sink German ore ships and cut the sea route from Narvik, Norway, over which German vessels transport Swedish iron ore.

Norway's protest to Berlin objected to the torpedoing "without warning" of the Norwegian, ship Braatt in the English Channel March 1 and the aerial machine-gunning of the Norwegian steamer Lysaker off Scotland on Feb. 3.

Physical Vigor Wanes, But Mind Is Active, At 40

Medical Authority Advises Older Men To Give Up Strenuous Activities

HARRISBURG, March 25—Pennsylvania's mental health authorities contend that if persons approaching middle age would learn to relinquish physical efforts to younger groups and confine themselves to further cultivation of their mental abilities, much of their life would really "begin at forty".

Dr. William C. Sandy, director of the Bureau of Mental Health, State Department of Welfare, says that cultivation and active pursuit hobbies in later years and willingness to admit that there comes a time when active physical efforts must be turned over to the oncoming generations will solve many of the problems of middle age today.

Recalling the old saying—"young men for action, old men for counsel"—Dr. Sandy advises that as much as adults dislike to delegate authority and leadership to the younger generation, this is necessary for the good of all concerned.

One of the most ingenious devices used by a spy is a pipe with a sceret space between the inner and outer walls of the bowl in which tissue paper notes can be hidden, say Collier's. BLUE BABIES

One often hears the expression, "Johnnie was a blue baby." I get letters from persons inquiring what a blue baby is and what causes it.

Generally speaking, if we inquire into the facts of Johnnie's birth, we will find that for some reason or other, he didn't start breathing as soon as he should have and, so he turned blue because he couldn't get enough air into his lungs. Or we might find that during the first few weeks of life, had occasional spells in which the usual rosy glow in his cheeks would disappear and he would at first be pale, then his lips and the lobes of the ears would be dusky blue in color.

In order to understand what may be the underlying cause of this "bluness" in babies, we must first have some idea of the complicated changes that go on when a baby is born.

Remember, up until that time, the baby has made no attempt to obtain his own air. All he has needed has been brought to him by way of his mother's blood. However, when the baby is born and emerges into this cold, cruel world he is definitely and distinctly on his own. His heart and lungs cannot depend on the mother any longer, they must go to work for themselves. So, when he takes that first gasping cry we all wait for so eagerly, it is a sign that he is starting the mechanism of heart and lungs that must not stop or he will die.

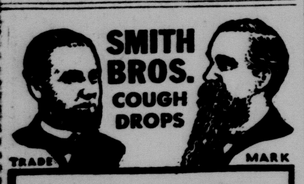

Of course, the heart has been beating away for several months before the baby is born, but the circulation it was responsible for was a very incomplete one. No real strain had been placed upon it because the lungs at that time were folded up; no blood was coursing through them. With the first breath the lungs begin to expand, blood begins to flow through them as it continues to do for the rest of the child's life.

You can see that at this moment, the heart is called on to do an enormous amount of additional work. If it fails in its task to any great degree, then the baby becomes blue in color. If it is an extreme case, if the heart just won't do the work, then the baby can't live more than a few minutes.

Fortunately, this is not a common occurrence. Nearly always the heart makes some attempt at least to carry on the work of circulation through the lungs, but if there is some abnormality present, it may not be able to carry on the work in a completely satisfactory fashion. The result will be a baby that suffers from "blue" spells. This indicates an abnormal heart condition and that the child, if he survives infancy will likely be a permenent invalid.

There are other causes of "blueness," in babies and fortunately, they aren't as serious as those we have been discussing. The Quintuplets when they were born, were all very dark, as premature babies nearly always are. In fact they were so dark that some people might have thought they were "blue" babies. Fortunately they weren't. When they had trouble with their circulation and breathing due to their general weakness, they turned white. Then we got busy with the oxygen and brought them around again.

CONTAIN VITAMIN A (CAROTENE)

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

"He's a smart man—must have a big brain."

This is a common expression, but not necessarily true.

Size of brain is not the most important point in intelligence.

Brain weight varies with age, stature, sex and race.

Brain power depends on the action of the nerve cells.

They connect and correlate the sensory and motor mechanisms.

These nerve cells are known as association cells.

How many of these association cells does a man have?

How richly are they connected?

This is the key to the amount of intelligence a person has.

A small brain may have highy organized association cells.

These cells denote the idiot, the genius or the normal ones.

Traffic Lines To Be Painted On More Roadway

Highway Department Will Cover Six Thousand Miles This Summer

HARRISBURG, March 25 — The Department of Highways will paint traffic lines this year on at least 6000 miles of road it was announced today. That will be an increase of approximately 25 per cent over last year.

Traffic lines are put down as a safety measure by the department along dangerous sections of the highway. Solid lines will be painted on grades and curves.

Plans of the department call for the painting of a minimum of 4000 miles of solid lines during the year. In addition 2000 miles of broken lines will be painted as part of the program.

The broken lines are considered an aid to safer driving in fog and rain when the visibility of the driver is impaired. Both the solid and broken lines are a safety feature especially for night driving.

More than 75,000 gallons of paint will be required to carry on the program. It is estimated that 31,745 gallons will be needed for the painting on macadam road surfaces while 43,445 gallons will be purchased for the painting on concrete highways.

White paint will be used for the painting of all traffic lines. Last year the department decided to use only white paint for this work since tests proved it to be more visible under all conditions to other colors.

Reduce Number Of Highway Types

Highway Records Will List Only Nine Kinds Of Roads

HARRISBURG, March 25.—The department of highways announced today it will reduce the number of road types from 80 to 9. The change will be effective June 1.

Under the new scheme the department will not lose account of the various types now in use. The change is made primarily to simplify maintenance and accounting procedure. Records will be easier to keep and it will not require as much clerical work to keep them up-to-date.

When the new system goes into effect the following classifications of road types will be kept:

Unimproved earth, stabilized or traffic bound, light type with flexible base six inches or less in depth, light type with flexible base six inches or more in depth, brick or block surface on a flexible base, bituminous surface on a rigid base, brick or block surface on a rigid base, concrete and dual type pavement.

COMMON FAMILY MISHAP

(International News Service)

SHENANDOAH, Ia.—Broken arms apparently occur to the children of Floyd Young at the age of two years as a matter of course. While Ronald, two, was being treated for a broken arm recently, his father recalled that Richard and Robert, his older brothers, suffered similar injuries at the same age.

On Court House Hill

Within a short time, County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer will advertise the treasurer's sales of property which will be sold on May 1. Inasmuch as the first advertisement must be not less than three weeks from sale day it should appear sometime before April 10.

The sale will be of properties that are delinquent in road, school, county and poor taxes for 1931 and 1932. Those who do not wish their properties to be advertised for sale can obviate the appearance of them by paying the delinquent taxes anytime before the appearance of the first advertisement.

Two divorces were handed down Saturday by Judge W. Walter Braham. Mary Sciardone was awarded a divorce from her husband, Antonio Sciardone. Pearl M. Foster was awarded a divorce from her husband George J. Foster.

Wilbur Wynder of R. D. 5, first precinct of Hickory township was appointed inspector of elections in that precinct Saturday by Judge Thomas W. Dickey. He succeeds Carl Ryhal.

Three more persons have been arraigned before Alderman L. Claude Mantz charged with illegal voting. The three are D. F. Barsotti, 113 Glen avenue, Ellwood City; William H. Hall and Emilio Orlando of New Castle. The first two have waived a hearing and the latter will be given a hearing Wednesday afternoon. All are held in $300 bail each.

Judge W. Walter Braham has left for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where he will join his family for a week's vacation. He had intended leaving Thursday but the mandamus hearing held him up. With that issue out of the road, he was able to get away late Friday night. Before leaving he filed his opinion in the case.

The widening of Route 422 by two feet on each side from New Castle to Dixie Inn will cause little if any property damage. The right of way for the highway takes in even a greater width so that the state will not cut in on private property. No changes in right of way seem to be anticipated, although the curves will be widened considerably more than the straightaways.

School students interested in government have asked the question, "who is responsible for the upkeep of the various offices in the court house?" The answer is, the county commissioners. They are charged with the maintenance of the court house, although any changes such as additions to the building has to be approved by the court.

The county commissioners are also the purchasing agents for all departments, and with the county treasurer act as a salary board. Each departmental head sits as a member of the salary board when his own office is under discussion.

The county commissioners are also responsible for the upkeep of county bridges, for road damages caused by new state highways or improvements to state highways.

STATE INDUSTRY MORE DIVERSIFIED

HARRISBURG, March 25. — The Pennsylvania of 1940 has more than two and one-half times as many different classes of manufacturing as the Pennsylvania of 1910 had, it was released today in a survey made for the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce by its State Planning Board.

The state's great strides in industrial diversification were further emphasized by the disclosure that more than 70 per cent of all manufacturing classes are now represented within the state's borders. In 1910, the ratio was only 36 per cent.

Of approximately 350 manufacturing classes listed for the nation as a whole, secretary of commerce Richard P. Brown reported more than 250 operate in Pennsylvania. This compares with a United States total of 259 and a state figure of only 94 thirty years ago.

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments are calculated at Household's rate of 2½% per month on the first $100 of balances, and 2% per month on balances above $100, which is less than the maximum prescribed by the Small Loan Law.

B. E. Henderson, President

Find the amount of cash you need in the first column of the loan table. Then read across, picking out the monthly payment you can conveniently make out of your regular monthly income.

Sooner you repay your loan the less it costs

Note, in the last column of the table, that you may make very small payments if you prefer. See also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Four installments of $26.58 each, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. The cost in this case is only $6.32. (All payments shown in the table include the charges. You pay nothing more.)

One rate to everyone

Household has only one price—the same rate to all, whether new customers or former borrowers.

Final Concert Series Number On Thursday

As the concluding number of the 1939-40 series of Metropolitan Concert Guild presentations, a joint concert will be presented Thursday night March 28 in the George Washington junior high school auditorium, featuring the Senior High school symphony orchestra pianiste, a tenor and a danseuse.

The pianiste will be Miss Dorothy Fisher a fellowship student in the Julliard School of Music, New York City. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Fisher of Moody avenue. While in the senior high school she studied with local teachers but for the past two years has been in New York.

Monas Harlan, Tenor

Monas Harlan, tenor is also a local product. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Harlan of Harlansburg and after attending Harlansburg schools went to Westminster College. Following graduation he went to New York and in competition with many tenors of New York won the soloist role in the Old First Church of Brooklyn. He is now studying with Charles Hackett, a member of the Metropolitan Opera and a teacher in the Julliard School.

Shirley Eckl, danseuse is a Pittsburgh girl and is the director of the Frank Eckl School of Ballet and Modern Dance. She has appeared in various parts of the country, and will present ballet numbers here.

As to the senior high school orchestra it seems to get better each year. It is under the direction of Joseph Replogle and is rated among the best high school orchestras in the country. In 1935 it was state champion and entered the national contest in Madison, Wisconsin. Since then it does not participate in school contests because of the expense. James Hare will be featured as the flute soloist of the orchestra. The orchestra is composed of the following musicians:

Assassin Plot Is Investigated

(International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 25. Police today investigated a report by the Rev. Henry J. Soltau, vice crusader, that would-be assassins attempted to murder him at his home last night.

The Rev. Soltau, who is secretary of the Minnesota Anti-Saloon league, said three shots were fired at him from a car which sped up an alley adjoining his place. He was in the yard at the time, and saved himself ducking around a corner, he said.

The crusader has been active in denouncing vice conditions, and official corruption. Several indictments, including charges of operating vice houses and of police acceptance of bribes, have resulted from his charges.

THERE IS NO ONE CORRECT SPEECH PROFESSOR SAYS

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA. — Punctilious grammarians, who object to such phrases as "I ain't gonna do it," are all wet because there is no one correct speech, in the opinion of Dr. Hans Kurath, Professor of Linguistics at Brown University.

Addressing the Philadelphia meeting of the American Council of Social Agencies, he explained that "correct in speech simply means socially acceptable," and what goes in a city is "inappropriate and therefore incorrect on the farm.

Use of "It's me" instead of "It's I", or "I will" in place of "I shall.", is correct when used by a majority of any cultured group, he stated. To prove there is a sectional as well as a social difference in speech, he observed that the best educated groups in New England say "I dove in," while in Chicago the same type says "I dived in."

In the fourth, New Castle, group, the St. John's Lutheran was first with the Madison Avenue Christian, second, and the Mahoningtown Presbyterian, third.

In the groups outside of New Castle—the Ellwood district group had the Bell Memorial Presbyterian Sunday school in first place, the First Christian in second place, and the First Methodist, in third place. In the Wilmington district group, the Rich Hill Presbyterian Sunday school gained first place, the East Brook U .P. second place and the East Brook Methodist, third place. In the Mt. Jackson district group, the Bethel U. P. was winner in first place, the Mt. Jackson U. P. in second place, and the Bessemer Presbyterian in third place. In the Wampum district group, the Moravia Presbyterian was winner in first place, the West Pittsburg Methodist in second place and the Wampum Methodist in third place. In the Slippery Rock district the Neshannock U. P. Sunday school had a splendid record throughout and was the winner.

These winners will receive their awards at the annual convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School association which will be held at the Epworth Methodist church, New Castle, Thursday, June 13th.

JOIN IN "PIONEER WEEK" . . . . MARCH 25th. — 31st.

AN INVITATION TO THE PIONEERS OF 1940

THIS is a call to Pioneer Week. A call to today's Pioneers. A call to you—to everyone who lives here, who cares about a home, a job, property values and a community future.

We do honor to the early pioneers, yes! We see what they faced, starting with nothing, opposed by Indians who fought their every move to build and grow and progress—and we salute their grit that said and proved "IT CAN BE DONE!"

It's a new call that rings out over the hills and valleys—to a new spirit of pioneering. There's no place for "Indians" here today. There's brains and brawn and capital in NEW CASTLE. When we sound the cry, "Job Mobilization," we mean ALL of it! Industrial ideas. Civic push. Renovizing.

When you've got the makings, you can deliver the goods. NEW CASTLE has got what it takes.

Stop and think. See where we stand. There are plenty of good facts to kindle the civic signal fires on the hills and tell the world NEW CASTLE is on the go . . . ahead!

You used to call New Castle a steel town. You don't have to any more. There's a new word that's the salvation of a changing order: "DIVERSIFIED." That's where we're headed now—to diversified industries. A cross-section of plants that make a lot of different things for a lot of different needs in America. Big and little, they all add up. They're steadier. They take up the slack. And see how much of it is being done by our own local people. From small beginnings, they have grown, making jobs, making retail trade . . . giving the town something to stand on! We want more local teamwork like this.

Call the roll: potteries, bronzes, textiles, chemicals, food products, metal products, cans, radiators, lumber and wood products, quarry products, sanitary ware — and more! Strong public utilities, electric, gas, water, telephones, railroads — creating large employment.

Take pioneering in rural electrification. Only a few years old. Yet it opens a market that never existed before. Brings farmers to town for new products. And when you make new markets you make community payrolls in dozens of directions. That's just one example.

Back up what we've got—and make a reason for getting more. Make it healthy for industry and jobs to grow.

We've got plenty to offer. There's plenty of room for progress. That's a kind of pioneering we face today. We're all in it together. Your "yard" is bigger than your house and lot . . . it's the whole community now. Every gain we make is a gain for employment and payrolls and property values.

We've come up, a long way in seven years. Industrial employment has gained 80% since 1932. Industrial payrolls more than doubled. Industrial power, a measure of men at work, making strides. Post Office receipts and check payments—measures of business activity, well ahead. Building permits picking up. And retail trade ready to reflect every gain!

"Pioneer Week" is YOUR week. Come along . . . together!

Boston Red Sox Will Give Yankees Real Competition

"Boston Not Conceding Yanks Anything This Year", Cronin Says

Has Fair Pitching Staff, Foxx And Williams Are Heavy Hitters

By SID MERCER
International News Service Sports Writer

SARASOTA, Fla., March 25.—The Boston Red Sox are conceding nothing to the Yankees this year—not even an edge in the pitching. For the last two years they have outhit the champions in team averages. In 1938 they broke even with the Bronx Bullies in 22 games and last season they won 11 out of 19, five of them in a row. Thus they are the only American league contender to stand off or win a season's series from the Yankees since 1937. And Manager Joe Cronin cannot see why other teams in the league suffer from inferiority complexes when they play the Yankees.

Possibly Cronin has an idea that Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez won't be so good this year. For that matter, neither may Lefty Grove, who celebrated his 40th birthday down here in the Boston training camp. But the Sox still figure to get better pitching than last year when they failed to beat second division teams as consistently as did the Yankees.

Rich Looks Good

A year ago Woodrow Rich and Jim Bagby, two young right handers, were expected to be big winners for Boston. Both failed and finished in the minors. Rich acquired a sore arm early in the season but this spring he is coming along nicely.

The Yankees, with DiMaggio, Keller, Dickey, Gordon and Rolfe driving in runs, still pack that wicked punch and they figure to get the same brilliant defense that bulwarked their pitchers last season. So if the Red Sox are to break the New York pennant stride this year they must do it with better pitching.

Cronin gambled on Ted Williams last year and won. He is gambling again with Dominick DiMaggio, who has replaced Joe Vosmik in the Boston outfield. Young DiMaggio will play the sun field, switching from left to right with Williams. So far the kid brother of the ball playing family has looked good down here but he injured a leg in an early exhibition game and has had few opportunities to demonstrate his batting ability.

Williams appears to be set for another big year and in center is the reliable Roger Cramer. Lou Finney and Leo Nonnenkamp are the extra outfielders.

Good Infield

Boston's infield should outhit the Yankee inner line and here in this camp they rate it a better defensive infield than New York's. However, Dahlgren at first base gives the Yankees the edge in fielding and Foxx, at first, gives the Sox the edge in hitting. Down here they argue by the hour that Bobby Doerr is a better all around second baseman than Joe Gordon. Cronin will be back at shortstop and Jim Tabor at third.

The Bosox are shy in one important department. They have no catcher to match Bill Dickey. Gene DeSautels and Johnny Peacock will again share the backstop duties.

Eleven Pitchers

Eleven pitchers will be carried by the Boston club. Classed as starters are Grove, Rich, Jack Wilson, Bagby and Herbert Hash, the latter from Minneapolis. Freddy Ostermueller, who took three decisions over the Yankees in four starts last season, will not be ready when the season opens due to a sinus attack.

Grove cannot go more than once a week so the Sox will not have much left handed pitching in the early part of the season.

As the two outfits now shape up and barring accidents to key men, the Yankees still must get the call over their perennial pursuers.

State To Improve Fishing Streams

CCC Workers Will Devote Much Time To Stream Improvement

HARRISBURG, March 25.—Fish stream improvement within the state forests will receive added impetus this year, Secretary G. Albert Stewart of the department of forests and waters, said today.

Special emphasis has been stressed on this type of work in the current work plans of the state forest CCC camps. The fish stream improvement work on more than 100 miles of stream provides for approximately three times as much work as was done last year.

The object of fish stream improvement is to develop and maintain conditions most favorable to the growth and reproduction of fish life. By the use of small dams, log covers, deflectors and other devices, changed conditions of flow may be made to restore a balance of productivity of the stream.

City Baseball Meeting Tuesday

The managers and officials of the City Baseball league will have a meeting tonight at the St. Josephs parish hall Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock for the purpose of talking over the coming baseball campaign. Father Peter M. Schirra, president of the league, will conduct the meeting.

All managers who intend to take out franchises in the 1940 league must attend the meeting.

An election of officers for the 1940 season will take place tomorrow night. The same set of officers outside of the commissioners are expected to be named by the managers. Too much dissatisfaction on the 1939 board of commissioners necessitated a change this year. A. C. "Fred" Hyde is the new chairman of the board, the others being Sid Lockley, city controller; Councilman James "Jim" Fink Dr. E. L. Young and Charles P. "Bugs" Walther.

All franchise money must be in the hands of Secretary-Treasurer Michael "Jake" Babovsky by the time the meeting is over Tuesday night. The league will be closed after Tuesday night and no other teams added. Two of the 1939 teams will not be back, K. Pulaski and Union Civics.

In the other game the First Baptist team with a win over the Epworth team already in the bag will try to win class AA title tonight and halt the reign of the Epworth team for the last three years, champions of the class AA league. Both games will be hard fought and interesting.

'TRAVEL DOLLARS' SUGGESTED AS NEW 1940 COIN

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—The American Hotel Association, comprising six thousand member hotels of the United States and Canada, in a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, urges the coinage of special "travel dollars" to commemorate the 1940 "Travel America" program in which the United States Travel Bureau, railroads, steamship lines, hotels and tourism factors are co-operating.

The coin, according to Glennwood Sherrard, of the Parker House, Boston, Mass., and chairman of the travel committee of the American Hotel Association should be of limited issue, like the Columbian and other special coins. One of the basic objectives back of the idea would be that every holder of a "travel dollar" is reminded of the fact that he should spend money "going places, in seeing America and helping prosperity prosper."

SOMETHING NEW ON ICE SKATES•

There's always something new in the sports world and especially on ice. The latest is skate basketball, seen on the rink at Atlantic City.

Sports World Ramblings

Local Sports Sparks—It's easy to understand why Mr. and Mrs. Michael Yargates of Wilmington avenue are Joe Beggs' No. 1 rooters here. Beggs, ex-New York Yankee pitcher and currently a member of the Cincinnati Reds, is Mrs. Yargates' brother. Before Joe's baseball dream became a reality, he tossed a wicked javelin for Geneva college. He is well known in this district.

An ex-localite is Youngstown's 148-pound weight-lifting champion. The young man is Nick Wally, who formerly resided on South Mill street. The Adonis-like athlete was scheduled to defend his coveted laurels a few nights ago. As yet, this bureau doesn't know how Wally fared. The handsome Nick is well known in the South Side sector.

Bits from Ellwood—Ellwood City high and Wilkinsburg recently finished in a deadlock for sixth place in the W. P. I. A. L. western-regional gymnastic meet held in Slippery Rock. Jay Buquo and Dave Morrison qualified for the state finals at State college on Thursday, May 30. . . . Homestead eliminated the Tubers in the W. P. I. A. L. annual volley ball tourney. Munhall was the winner.

Frisch Means Business — Pitts- burgh's San Berdoo training camp "ain't what it used to be". Frankie Frisch gets the blame. The new shepherd stands for no tomfoolery whatsoever. You either produce or you get the ax. He'll stop at nothing, so long as he gains what he wants—to give Pittsburgh a smooth ball club, one that fights instead of loll's around, one that plays because it wants to, not one that performs merely because it's a daily routine.

Frankie has been too busy with his ax. Bill Clemenson felt the ax first, then came Ace Parker and Floyd Yount. George Susce, a catcher, was granted permission to tie up with the Browns. Suddenly "Chuck" Klein got his pink sheet. He was doing all right when Frisch declared him a free agent. We think Klein stepped over the bounds. You don't release a player who clubs out a homer one day, ties up a ball game the next day, and shows that he has a few more good playing days.

Frisch's ax-wielding act isn't over yet, not by far. Before this goes to press you may be reading about Fern Bell being sent to the minor leagues. Frisch believes it's foolish to carry extra baggage. Knowing that they must produce or else, the players are giving the best they have. This is a sure way of building up a good ball club. Pittsburgh may not cop the banner, but a fighting team will be on the field.

Members of seven major league clubs are due for a tough break. It looks like Deacon McKechnie is fed up with his prince charming, John Vander Meer. The two no-hit hero hasn't been of much use to the Reds since 1938. Yet McKechnie hung onto him. In Cuba, against Adolph Luque's all-stars, Vandy was terrific. Recently, with the bags jammed, he shot across a honey to Crespo, who responded by clubbing out a 500-foot homer. When the Cubans can do it, what can those N. L. batters do?

Teddy Yarosz To Battle On Coast

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—Though an amicable settlement which had been reached today in the dispute of who Teddy Yarosz would fight and where, the former middleweight champion will meet Turkey Thompson in Los Angeles tomorrow instead of Jimmy Reeves in Cleveland later in the week.

The inadvertent mixup in the boxing dates brought the Ohio boxing commission chairman, Tris Speaker, noted ex-baseball player, to the coast vowing that Yarosz would not fight here tomorrow night even if an injunction was necessary.

When Speaker got together with Chairman Jerry Giesler of the California athletic commission he was assured that if Yarosz failed to go through with the bout with Thompson the one-time champ and his manager, Joe Gould, would be barred in this state. It finally was agreed that Yarosz would keep his Cleveland engagement at a time to be announced later.

Tourney Finals Tuesday Night

Polish Falcons Will Meet Collegiates For Class A Championship

FANNINS-JUNIOR EX-HIGH TO MEET

Tuesday night will find the George Washington Junior high floor packed to the rafters for the finals in the third annual City-County basketball tournament. The doors will open at 6:45 o'clock to take care of the crowd, it was announced today by General Chairman A. R. Conn. In the first game the Fannins and Junior Ex-High Stars will tangle for the Class B championship. The main game will have the Polish Falcons meeting the Collegiates.

Both games will be highly interesting, and no doubt hard fought. There are many handsome trophies for the winners. Jack Gerson of the Gerson Jewelry store has been secured to make the presentation of the various awards.

Two Fine Teams

The Falcons and Collegiates have waded through a lot of stiff competition to reach the finals. The Falcons defeated Bessemer 41 to 31, in the first round and then dumped Ellwood City Shelby All-Stars in the second round 36-25.

The Collegiates so far have beaten the Holy Name team of St. Michaels, 30 to 16, the K. Pulaski team, 22-16, and the New Castle Boosters, 31-28.

The Fannins are given a slight edge to take the measure of the Junior Ex-High Stars, mainly through more experience. However, the Junior Ex-High team, led by Ciazza, Ross and Lauro figure to give the Fans a tough night.

OWNER OF STOLEN AUTO TELLS THIEF HOW TO RUN IT

(International News Service)

BOSTON—The kind heart of William Moore was torn between grief over the loss of his old automobile and sympathy for the man who stole it.

Through the police, Moore extended the following advice to the unknown thief:

"That car of mine is very temperamental. You'll have to pamper it to make it go. And sometimes even pampering won't help. My advice is that if the motor doesn't turn over the second time you step on the starter just get out and thumb a ride. Nothing will make it work when it gets into one of its moods. I don't want to cause any trouble to anyone so if the car is returned we'll call it quits. I have become rather attached to it."

COACHES REPLACE TROLLEY CARS IN WILMINGTON, DEL.

WILMINGTON, Del.—Caught in the march of trolley cars have given way to softly progress, Wilmington's noisy trol-purring trackless coaches.

Heralding a new era in Wilmington transportation, the new volt-fed machines took over after the last ride of old No. 410, as scaly and drab a trolley as was ever revived to observe the passing of a 52-year-old career.

To mark the historic occasion, a group of "last trippers" and reporters climbed into the battered car. With all stops out, it thundered down the Fourth street hill enroute to Silview and returned via Market street, where cheers greeted the hardy veteran.

Jack Lamoree To Be Banquet Toastmaster

Is Known For His Hunting, Fishing Enthusiasm And Revolver Ability

SPORTSMEN TO DINE THURSDAY

When Jack Lamoree arises Thursday evening as toastmaster of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association banquet he will not be the "district attorney;" instead, he will be "just another man who likes to fish and hunt." And also having been an expert revolver shot for some years, it wasn't surprising that the sportsmen plucked Jack to handle toastmaster duties.

They have known Jack from the time he wore knee breeches and during those days have watched him reel in fish, trot in the wake of good bird dogs and also draw and explode a pistol almost as fast if not as quickly as some of the characters in the days of Bat Masterson and Wild Bill Hickok.

And not only that, they've heard Jack, quick on the trigger verbally, and it wouldn't be surprising on Thursday evening that he, a devout enthusiast of wild life, spring some rather witty remarks concerning some of the boys who have fared forth with rod and gun, not only in this, but other sections.

The sportsmen's banquet isn't a political affair. Far from it. Instead, it is a fete when men would pawn their overcoat to buy a hound or sell their watch to get a good trout or bass pole, get-to-gether to speak each other's language. Present among the committeemen will be the trapshooting sheriff, Cy Ingham.

About the only thing that might possibly prevent the sheriff from serving scire facias (which in plain every day language and not Latin, means a judicial writ founded on matter of public record, judicial, or non-judicial, used to give notice to some party interested) is a sportsmen's field day or banquet.

Two Good Speakers

Sheriff Cy will be one of the reception committee as will be Mayor Charles B. Mayne, who can recall the time when bass in the Shenango river were sufficiently numerous to attack boats and leap into scows. Despite his three score eight years, His Honor fares forth on the first morning of the rabbit hunting season and yet has not returned disappointed.

Another among the greeters will be Jared Reis, one of the pioneers in wild life conservation. In that capacity he served the public well. Relative to the speakers, there'll be Ross Leffler, president of the State Game commission and Charles A. French, Ellwood City, State fish commissioner.

These men are versed in their topics. They'll give first hand knowledge of what their bodies are doing and it is practically sure that those who attend the banquet at 6:30 p. m. in the Cathedral, Thursday, will later walk from the huge dining-room, immensely satisfied with having mingled with brethren of rod and gun.

Tuesday will be the last day when tickets for the banquet may be secured. It might be a good idea for those who hanker for a good meal, a couple of authoritative though not long addresses, plus considerable other entertainment to do as the fair ground spieler urges, "Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! The tickets may be obtained at:

Gersons, Fervers, Rodgers garage, Alderman Green's office, Willer's hardware, Sporting Goods store, Frisbee's garage and from any member of the committee. Bert Rick, chairman of the ticket committee, may be reached by telephone, 4547.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

It is appropriate for baseball fan- dom to utter three cheers today, it having been imparted to us that the Loyal Order of Moose will enter baseball this year. In fact, plans are under way and with 'Fiz' Rodenbaugh as manager the Moose should have a bang-up team of youngsters. According to our informant, Jimmie Thomas, the plans are not yet fully matured. However, one thing is certain, that is, the Moose wants to sponsor baseball for the purpose of furnishing clean, wholesome recreation for the younger element of the city. The Moose will apply for entrance in the City league, according to our understanding. With Rodenbaugh, the "grand old man" of the pitcher's box and the infield in charge and with such loyal "rooters" as Ringer, Raney, Thomas, Drushel, Quehl et. al, the fans can expect to see a ball game everytime the Moose team canters upon a field.

Cold Finish Wins Shelby Loop Toga

Basket By Tammaro In Overtime Period Decides Games For Second Half Winners

ELLWOOD CITY, March 25—The Cold Finish became the Shelby basketball league 1939-40 champions on Saturday night with a hard-fought 38 to 36 win in an overtime period over the first half winners, making it two straight over the Cold Draw in the post-season play-off series. Incidentally, the score was the same as in the series opener last Wednesday night.

A fielder from midcourt and a foul late in the final canto by Gottuso deadlocked the contest at 36-all, at the end of the regulation game, and the only scoring in the three-minute overtime session was a basket from short range by Ralph Tammaro, Cold Finish forward, which decided the contest.

At the end of three periods the Cold Finish held at 31 to 26 lead, and only a great spurt by the Cold Draw in the telling period knotted the count. Playing his usual brilliant floor game, Alex Robuck again captured the scoring laurels with 12 points, with Hauserman being next with 11 points. Tomei and Binaco led for the losers.

A magnificent second half rally gave the New Brighton Sons of Legions a 47 to 46 win over the Ellwood Sons of Legion in the preliminary game. Peluso, New Brighton substitute forward, caged the deciding bucket as the game ended. Poor foul shooting proved the locals downfall.

Decicio and Haines were high scorers for the local team, and Peluso for the winners.

CONGRESS NO LAZY MAN'S CLUB

Representative Patrick

Representative Patrick

If you think being a congressman is a soft snap, just ask Representative Luther Patrick (D.) of Alabama who, after three years in the house of representatives, ought to—and does—know. Patrick, in a speech before the house, reminded his colleagues that an efficient congressman is "a messenger boy, an employment agency, glad-hander, controversy settler, convention booker, business promoter, namer of babies, soberer of delegates, friend of underdog and upperdog," and many other things. He must also, Patrick says, "cheerfully entertain constituents, their wives, their sons, their sons' wives and see that the daughters meet the midshipmen at Annapolis."

HUGE DEPOSITS OF PHOSPHATE FOUND IN WEST

(International News Service)

COKEVILLE, Wyo.—Deposits of phosphate in Wyoming are sufficient to supply the United States for the next 50 to 100 years, it was estimated recently when a party of geologists visited the phosphate fields of Wyoming, Utah and Idaho.

Led by United States Senator Harry H. Schwartz, the party spent most of a day at Cokeville viewing the mining operations. The party included professors from the University of Wyoming and the Utah Agricultural College at Logan, Utah and a geologist from the United States Geological Service.

Two carloads of the Cokeville phosphate were processed by the TVA in Tennessee recently and were found to be above standard for fertilizer, it was reported.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Now that Easter is over we hope to be able to settle down to some real honest-to-goodness spring thinking . . . that means in many minds flower gardens . . . and that ever popular garden for the kitchen. It won't be long until warm winds will be finding their way to our backyards.

While we are waiting for spring . . . let's not sit around and look down in the mouth. For instance you might be a great fisherman, a good way to keep up with your stories is to attend the Sportsmen's Banquet on Thursday evening of this week. All those who attend will be fed "Barnyard pheasant" . . . one game that never is out of season . . . and it will be prepared to perfection. After the delicious meal only two speakers are reported to be present . . . Hon. Ross L. Leffler, president of the Pennsylvania Game Commission and his talks are always interesting and the second speaker will be Hon. Charles French, Commissioner of Pennsylvania Fisheries and does he have some tall old fish stories . . . also on the program will be moving pictures of the great outdoors . . . and they are in color and sound, boy they are really worth the price of a ticket . . . also for other entertainment a troup of Major Bowes' World Fair folks will be present. So folks you see that a full evening of fun and education will be ready or you . . . buy your tickets today and help keep good sportsmenship alive.

Fourth stanza of "What Makes Home" . . .

We had many friends to visit.
Friends of long, long, ago.
We played golf on the grassy fairways,
And had many places to go;
But on Saturday night, we got homesick
For some of the gang to drop our way.
Because when it comes to real living
Give us home in New Castle, Pa.

Here we have three female part spitz dogs that the owner Leroy Lutz, 717 East Main Street would like to find good homes for . . . if you are interested please contact the address at once.

Stock Market Session Dull

Little Trading Is Evident—Fluctuations In Pivotal Issues Meaningless

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, March 25.—The stock market turned in an extremely dull performance today, as Wall Street appeared to be still under the influence of the Easter holidays. Leaders held within narrow and irregular limits from the opening, with the tape at a standstill for long intervals.

Fluctuations in pivotal issues generally were meaningless. Bethlehem Steel was a shade lower, while U. S. Steel held at Saturday's close. General Motors gained slightly as Chrysler lost as much; Anaconda improved moderately, but American Smelting eased.

These were typical of most group movements. Among those to show plus signs were United Aircraft, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Santa Fe, Standard Oil of N. J., U. S. Rubber, Briggs, Consolidated Edison, American Telephone and National Biscuit.

Minor losses were incurred by Boeing, Johns-Manville, General Electric, American Water Works, Electric Auto Lite, N. Y. Central, Goodrich, Union Carbide and General Foods.

Wheat climbed better than a cent a bushel, but most other commodities lost ground. Cotton dipped 25 cents a bale. Bonds were sluggish.

The British pound continued under pressure in local foreign exchange dealings.

GERMANY CLAIMS VESSEL IS SUNK IN DANISH WATERS

"looted" the Edmund Hugo Stinnes after shelling the vessel, then sent it down with a torpedo.

The ship's captain was taken aboard the submarine as a war prisoner while members of the crew rowed to the Danish shore in lifeboats. The two injured men were taken to a hospital. The attack marked the second sinking of a German steamer by a British submarine since the war began.

(On Friday a British submarine sank the German freighter Hedderheim in the Kattegat.)

The German vessel that ran aground was the 3,030-ton Ostpreussen.

(A Reuters dispatch said the Ostpreussen was beached by her own crew. An International News Service dispatch from Copenhagen said the ship had a hole in her hull, evidently received from striking rocks, and that she was assisttd by a Danish salvage ship.)

Both the Edmund Hugo, Stinnes and the Ostpreussen were carrying cargoes of coke.

D.N.B. claimed British warships and planes infringed upon Norway and Denmark "to pursue German merchant vessels," adding:

"The German steamers Nordland and Neuenfels and the freighter Europa were hard pressed within Norwegian territorial waters by the British destroyers Fearless and Duchess."

Allege Territory Violation

London, March 25.—First repercussions of Britain's newly intensified naval warfare against Nazi iron are shipments reached London today in the form of a Norwegian protest alleging violation of her territory.

Erik Colban, Norway's minister to Great Britain, filed the protest which, according to authoritative British sources, concerned airplane flights over Norwegian fjords, Germany's "protected" sea route.

But this protest was regarded as merely the first of an expected series which would cover Norwegian admiralty charges that British naval vessels thrice attempted to intercept Nazi ships in Norwegian waters in the last four days.

Two of these alleged naval violations were mentioned in Oslo dispatches received today. Both occurred last Thursday.

SELECTING JURY IN MACING TRIAL

gation which followed the bitter 1938 Democratic primary campaign. Lawrence was acquitted in an earlier trial on charges based on the so-called Erie gravel scandal of 1937.

Two Alternate Jurors

Twelve jurors and two alternates will be chosen during the day from a trial jury panel of 92 veniremen. Selection of the jury is expected to take up the entire day.

Lawrence, secretary of the commonwealth under former Gov. George H. Earle; Bashore, Schuylkill county Democratic chairman and former Earle secretary of labor and industry, and six Dauphin county Democratic officials are charged with conspiracy in 1937 to assess state employes for political purposes.

Those on trial in addition to the two former Earle cabinet officials are Carl K. Deen. The Democratic state committee's resident secretary at Harrisburg, and the following five members of the Dauphin county Democratic committee: Robert M. Fager, county chairman; Frank R. Hean, office manager; Wendell Morgenthaler, treasurer; Clyde H. Smith, finance chairman; and William B. Freeland, finance committee member.

Knights Templar Observe Easter

Beautiful Service Takes Place In Cathedral Early Sunday Morning

Beautiful in its simplicity and solemnity was the Easter morning service of Lawrence Commandery, No. 62, Knights Templar, assisted by the other commanderies of the eighth division of the Grand Commandery of Pennsylvania.

The services opened with a program of organ music, with A. Alfred Taylor at the console of the Greer Memorial organ, following which the ceremony of relighting the lights, extinguished at the Maundy service of the Rose Croix chapter, A. A. S. R., on the preceding Sunday, took place, with Eminent Sir Edwin C. McComb, prelate, as narrator.

Dr. John J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, brought the message, and delivered a splendid sermon, in which he emphasized the hope and joy of the Easter season and its significance to the world. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by Dr. William V. McLean, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Music during the service was furnished by the Consistory choir of the Valley of New Castle, and the Schubert sextette of this city.

The service terminated promptly at 9:15, in order to permit the worshippers to attend succeeding services in their own churches.

New Record Made By Cold Weather

Sunday's Weather Was Coldest On Record In District For Time Of Year

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 25.—The record cold wave that nipped in the bud this year's Easter parade of finery was predicted by the weatherman to continue today.

Though thermometers hugged nine degrees yesterday, lowest for this time of year in weather bureau history, attendance at the Easter services in the churches hit capacity peak.

And devotees of flora and fauna by the thousands, scornful of the wintry tang, attended the annual flower show at Phipps Conservatory here. A near-normal figure of 12,000 visitors was reported.

As for the Easter parade—it was confined to winter furs and woolens, offset only by new spring bonnets, although a few, very few, dared the freezing winds with spring outfits.

Even gardenia corsages, the only attempt by many to flout a lingering winter, turned brown from the cold.

Government forcasters predicted generally fair and continued cold for today, with temperatures hovering between 10 and 15 degrees. No let-up was in sight before tomorrow.

NEW FARM BLOC MOVE IN BATTLE ON TRADE PACTS

polls if their program to continue the trade treaty program is defeated. Sen. George (D) Ga., said:

"Defeat of the trade treaties would prove a definite setback to the party at the polls in November. This program has been the one serious step taken by any great nation to block the worldwide process of trade restrictions. The Democratic party cannot politically afford to abandon it."

Without Congressional Restraint

The current law permits the administration to negotiate trade treaties without congressional restraint. Unless it is extended the existing trade treaty law expires June 12. The house already has approved the extension.

So vital was the fight ahead that opposition leaders have made arrangements for members of their ranks now absent from Washington to fly back to be on hand when the final vote is held. Supporters of the extension measure were laboring to persuade doubtful senators to vote for it.

Leaders predicted that the fight would last 10 days or two weeks. Sen. Harrison (D) Miss., led supporting ranks, and was to open debate today. Sen. Pittman (D) Nev. was to follow him as author of the ratification amendment which, if adopted, would kill the treaty program.
